3.0 SUPPORTING EVIDENCE

3.1 DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

North Perth was initially called Woodville and Toorak after the early estates until circa 1901 when the area was renamed North Perth. The North Perth area was seen as a good place to live as housing was relatively cheap, and it was within walking distance from the city. In this early part of the twentieth century North Perth was on the outskirts of the Perth metropolitan area with bushland extending from the suburbs limits. By 1903, subdivision had gone on so rapidly that North Perth's street plan extended to the junction of Walcott Street and Wanneroo Road.

Much of the housing in North Perth was built between 1895 and 1935 and was mostly modest dwellings constructed in the Federation and Inter-war style of architecture. Angove Street was a commercial centre of the suburb and included the Police Station. View Street housed many of the public buildings, namely the North Perth Town Halls, the North Perth Post Office and the North Perth Fire Station, which are still existent today; however now with alternative uses.

Trams from the city to North Perth ran along Fitzgerald Street from 1900 to 1953. Roads were constructed to provide a firm base for the tracks. The lines entered Fitzgerald Street from Bulwer Street with the first route ending at Forrest Street. The Fitzgerald Street line was continued north along Angove Street with the Albert Street terminus opening in 1906. The line extended to Charles Street in 1927. These extensions led to rapid growth in North Perth. Whereas only 12 per cent had been built on in 1904, this had risen to 36 per cent by 1911.

On 22 December 1914 Perth, North Perth and Leederville municipalities united to form Greater Perth. From this date there was one council and one mayor. This was the Perth City Council.

Mignonette Street forms part of the first phase of the subdivision of North Perth known as Christmas Hill, which includes Mignonette, Magnolia and Pansy streets.

The subject dwelling at 3 Mignonette Street first appeared on the WA Post Office Directories in 1913. The first resident was Oliver Cheney until 1915 when Alfred Lenneberg became the second occupant until 1919. Early occupancy of the place changed frequently comprising Oliver Parlington (1920), Noel Brady (1921 – 1925), Alan Mann (1926 – 1929), Alee Ashton (1930), Alan Mann (1931 – 1939), Jas Hofman (1940 – 1943) and Fredrick Johnstone (1944 – 1949).

There is limited information available which documents the ownership/occupancy of the subject dwelling after the Directories ceased its publication in 1949.

3.2 PHYSICAL EVIDENCE

An external inspection was undertaken in October 2018 for the purpose of this assessment. As an internal inspection was not undertaken, comments on the physical evidence are restricted to the external features.

The subject place was constructed circa 1912.

The dwelling is designed in the Federation Bungalow style and constructed in tuck pointed red brick with corrugated metal roof. The place is a single storey symmetrical dwelling with a high-pitched hipped roof featuring twin gables above symmetrical sets of double vertical casement windows.

A skillion verandah extends across the entire front façade and is supported by chamfered timber posts, spanned by lacework frieze and corner brackets. The front fence is decorative wrought iron. The chimneys are symmetrical tuck point brick with moulded top detail and the front facing gables are timber and stucco with decorative finials.

Alterations and additions were approved in 2016 which included an attic conversion to a habitable room including two south facing dormer windows. The additions have minimal impact to the heritage significance of the dwelling or the streetscape.

Streetscape

The dwelling is part of a small but highly intact streetscape of Federation Bungalows, similar in style, scale, set back and construction material adjacent to tennis courts that form part of Woodville Reserve.

3.3 COMPARATIVE INFORMATION

The Federation Bungalow style was widely applied in the City of Vincent. Though some houses were developed with a full expression of the style, most were more conservative like the subject place.

Some examples of the Federation Bungalow style included on the City's Municipal Heritage Inventory are 38 Kalgoorlie Street, 321 Fitzgerald Street and 50 Shakespeare Street.
