ABOUT THIS PLAN

INTRODUCTION FROM THE MAYOR

Vincent prides itself on our intergenerational cohesion and younger people are a part of our vitality as a City. As Vincent continues to grow and change, we remain committed to listening to the voices of young people, recognising their contributions and ensuring the needs of young people are reflected in our decisions.

That commitment is at the heart of the Youth Action Plan 2026 and Beyond (YAP). Shaped by the insights of young people, along with parents and caregivers, local service providers and community members, the YAP reflects a shared vision for Vincent where young people feel safe, connected and valued.

Our consultation with young people provided valuable insights into their priorities, experiences and aspirations as they relate to us as a local government. Young people emphasised the importance of having accessible, safe and welcoming spaces where they can connect, socialise and participate in activities that reflect their diverse interests and identities. Many highlighted the need for more opportunities that foster creativity, skill development and pathways into employment or entrepreneurship, reflecting a desire to be actively involved in shaping their futures.

This new YAP responds to the changing needs and priorities of young people today. It is structured around four focus areas that reflect what matters most to them - place and belonging, wellbeing and inclusion, youth leadership and engagement and opportunity.

Each focus area includes practical actions that we will deliver in partnership with our community, ensuring young people have the spaces, opportunities and support they need to thrive.

We thank everyone who shared their ideas and lived experience to help shape this YAP. Your creativity and vision will guide our work in the years ahead.

With this Youth Action Plan, we are walking alongside young people to build an inclusive, vibrant and youth-friendly Vincent that meets the needs of young people both now and into the future.

Alison Xamon, Mayor

ABOUT THE YOUTH ACTION PLAN

The Youth Action Plan 2026 and Beyond provides a roadmap for how the City will support young people aged 10 – 25 over the coming years. Actions have been aligned to the City's Strategic Community Plan 2022 – 2032.

The Strategic Community Plan sets out the community's vision and aspirations for the future and this YAP helps bring those priorities to life for young people. It supports the key priorities of Connected Community, Thriving Places and Innovative and Accountable by providing a guide for how the City will continue to deliver meaningful services, programs and opportunities for this age group.

Young people are a vital source of energy, creativity and innovation in our community. This Plan reflects the City's commitment to ensuring their voices are heard, their wellbeing is supported and their contributions are recognised. It outlines both the strengths we can build on and the areas where we need to do more to ensure inclusion, engagement and support.

With ages 10 – 25 being such a formative stage of life, this Plan considers the rapidly changing social, cultural and technological landscape that shapes their experiences today. By working in partnership with young people, families and the wider community, the Plan provides both practical actions and a longer-term vision to ensure Vincent is a place where all young people can participate, create and thrive.

OUR GUIDING PRINCIPLES

The YAP is underpinned by a set of guiding principles which will steer us through our work over the coming years.

Equitable and inclusive

Young people come from many different backgrounds and have their own unique experiences. We know this shapes what they need, how they share their views and that some can be harder to reach. This YAP includes extra steps to make sure we connect with everyone so every voice has the chance to be heard and included.

Evidence based

Decisions affecting young people need to be backed by evidence. This YAP is supported by a Background Paper developed by the Youth Affairs Council of WA (YACWA) and we'll keep building on this with emerging best practice, Census data and ongoing conversations with young people. This helps make sure our actions reflect real needs, priorities and lived experiences.

Partnership approach

Lasting change starts with the community. This YAP is built on a partnership approach, where young people, parents and caregivers, local services and the wider community are supported with the tools, skills and confidence to identify what's needed and work together to create positive change.

Respectful and empowering

The perspectives, talents and strengths that young people bring to our community enrich every aspect of our work. We are committed to engaging with them in ways that are genuine, inclusive and meaningful. Our aim is to create opportunities that build confidence and resilience and to support young people to speak up, be heard and feel ownership over their voice. This principle guides every conversation we have with them.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE PLAN

WHO WE ENGAGED WITH AND HOW

Developing this YAP involved reflecting on the progress made under the previous Youth Action Plan, researching youth trends and local challenges, reviewing the services already available and listening to the voices of young people, parents, caregivers, local organisations and City staff. Community consultation was central to shaping the YAP. We connected with young people through online and in-person surveys, youth workshops at Aranmore Catholic College, The Y HQ, North Perth Primary School and Bob Hawke College. We also visited sporting clubs, Beatty Park Leisure Centre and Loftus Recreation Centre to speak with young people in their own spaces and ran a community postcard campaign to capture big ideas. Interviews with local organisations and service providers and a workshop with City staff added further insight.

Listening to our young people

Our City is home to young people from a wide range of backgrounds and experiences. To make sure we heard as many voices as possible, we connected with the community in places where young people feel comfortable. This included chatting at community events, visiting recreational training sessions and having relaxed conversations around the City.

We also worked with peer researchers engaged by YACWA, who spoke with their peers at various locations across the City. They explored what was important to young people and had real, meaningful conversations that provided valuable insights into their perspectives. Parents and the broader community also shared helpful ideas about the programs and opportunities they'd like to see more of.

Opportunities to get involved were promoted through the City's website, at City events, in community venues, through poster campaigns, on social media and via direct outreach to local schools and key stakeholders.

Survey responses helped build a clear picture of what matters most to young people. Through these conversations, we heard their stories, the challenges they face and the everyday experiences that shape their lives.

Engaging with service providers and organisations

Conversations with youth-focused service providers and organisations have been invaluable in shaping this YAP. Youth engagement hubs, crisis support services and educational institutions shared essential insights into the variety, breadth and depth of issues and priorities affecting young people in our City.

Research and discussions with state and local government agencies, peak bodies and advisory groups have also been crucial in building a broader understanding of strategic considerations and the networks that support young people.

This extensive consultation, which included input from more than 900 people, has given us a deeper understanding of those who live, work, play and visit our City including their motivations, interests, concerns and aspirations. Over time we will continue to grow this understanding. By maintaining strong relationships with the community, service providers and organisations we can ensure the services we deliver are supportive, connected and contribute to a thriving experience and a promising future for everyone in our City.

WHAT WE HEARD

There is already strong research on the issues and priorities affecting young people, so our focus was on understanding what this means for those living, working, playing or visiting Vincent.

To develop the YAP we spoke with 10 – 25 year olds, parents and caregivers, local service providers and City staff. Their insights showed what is working, what could be improved and where new opportunities exist to create a more inclusive and supportive environment for young people. The qualitative and quantitative data collected through this process has shaped the development of the YAP deliverables.

- Access to jobs, career guidance and opportunities to upskill during high school is important.
- Inclusive facilities, particularly for young people with disability, are important.
- Free, accessible 'third spaces' to study, socialise and connect are important.
- Accessible and affordable gyms, sports and recreation facilities are important.
- Awareness and access to mental health services is important.
- Opportunities to have a say in City decisions and feedback loops are important.
- Sports, music, visual arts and creative activities are valued.
- Safety, inclusivity and accessibility of events are important considerations.
- Access to City facilities such as parks, libraries and sporting grounds supports connection and belonging.
- Feeling a sense of belonging and contributing to the community is important.

UNDERSTANDING OUR TIMEFRAMES

Each action in this YAP has been assigned a timeframe to help guide delivery and set clear expectations.

Priority	What this means
Short	Actions we will begin within the first two years. These are high-priority items and/or require minimal additional resources.
Medium	Actions we will begin within two to three years. These require moderate resources, planning or partnerships before implementation can commence.
Long	Actions that are stretch goals and may take significant planning, exploration or resources to achieve.
Ongoing	Actions that are already underway and will continue throughout the life of the Plan.

EVALUATION AND REVIEW

This YAP outlines our priorities and deliverables for supporting, connecting and empowering young people in our community. It is shaped by what we heard from young people, families, local organisations and City staff.

To make sure the YAP stays relevant and continues to reflect what young people need, we will monitor our progress and check how well we are meeting our goals. Our success will be measured through key performance indicators that track the number and variety of youth-focused initiatives, participation in events, programs and activities and the feedback we receive through ongoing engagement with young people, the community and local service providers.

We are committed to being open about our progress. We will report on how we are delivering the actions in the YAP through our annual reporting processes and updates to the Corporate Business Plan. We will also share our achievements with the community through social media, newsletters and other City publications.

ABOUT THE WORDS WE USE

Co-design	Co-design means working with the people who use places, programs or services and involving them from start to finish in the design process.
Disability	In this Plan, disability is understood broadly. Many young people self-identify as facing barriers due to disability. Advocacy organisations, including Youth Disability Advocacy Network (YDAN - WA's peak body for young people with disability), use the social model of disability: people are disabled by barriers in society, not by their impairment. Barriers may be physical (e.g. no accessible toilets) or attitudinal (e.g. assumptions about what people with disability can or can't do).
LGBTIQ+	This acronym stands for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, intersex, queer/questioning and asexual, with the plus symbol representing other diverse identities. It is the acronym currently used by the Youth Pride Network (WA's peak body for LGBTIQ+ young people).
Neurodiversity	Neurodiversity recognises that people experience and interact with the world in different ways, including those with autism, ADHD, dyslexia and other conditions, and that society should remove barriers so neurodivergent young people are respected and supported.
Young people	For this Plan, 'young people' means those aged 10 to 25. This aligns with the WA Youth Action Plan 2024 – 2027 (Koorlangka Bidi).
Youth vs young people	The preferred term is 'young people' rather than 'youth' or 'youths', unless referring to a place or document (e.g. youth centre, Youth Plan). The term 'youths' has negative connotations (e.g. 'gang of youths') and is avoided.
